Boston Beaches of Activity in Preparation for Landing of Airmen on United States Soil; Great Reception Will Be Accorded by Hub City.

By United Press.

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 3.—The American around the world aviators left Hawkes Bay, Newfoundland, for Pictou Harbor, N. S., at 11:05 A. M. today, according to a radio received here from Hawkes Bay.

The weather, which had been rainy and overcast earlier in the morning, was clearing as the fliers took off from Hawkes Bay and soared away to the southwest toward Pictou Harbor. Radio reports from the destroyers stationed along the route reported conditions generally favorable and it was hoped that the 420-mile flight would be accomplished in less than six hours.

Strong head winds which prevailed during the flight to Hawkes Bay yesterday died down during the night and foggy weather, which followed the rain, was being dissipated by a good breeze.

The United States Ship Barry, waiting for the fliers in the harbor at Pictou, reported that the buoys marking the places where the fliers will alight were placed last night and that all was in readiness to receive them.

The Boston II, in which Lieutenant Wade will join his comrades, was anchored near the spot. Wade's new machine was tuned up and he is ready to take the air with Lieutenants Smith and Nelson on the flight from Pictou to Boston tomorrow.

The cruiser Richmond has taken up her position off Cape George, N. S.

CHINESE FORCES LAUNCH FIGHTING NEAR SHANGHAI

By United Press.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 3.—Actual fighting between the Kuangsu and Chekiang forces on a front 30 miles from here started early today. The fighting could be heard here.

The Chekiang forces are drawn in a semi-circular line defending Shanghai. General Yuan's troops are stationed directly in front of the Chekiang.

The results of the early fighting are unknown.

Japanese and French marines were landed in Shanghai today to insure protection of the foreign settlement. American marines are being held in readiness to act.

Twenty-one warships were in the harbor today, including 12 American vessels. The destroyers were guarding the American docks which are built in Chinese territory outside the international zone.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—With most of the Asiatic fleet concentrated in Shanghai harbor for protection of American lives and property, the United States government today waited developments of the Chinese civil war near that port. A formal protest to the Pekin government made by the United States and the other great powers against precipitating a naval battle in the harbor brought no reply. Nine American destroyers and eight gunboats are at or close to Shanghai, according to the Navy Department. These vessels, this government fears, might become endangered if the Pekin government launches an expected attack on the war craft of the revolutionary leaders in the harbor and on the Yangtze River.

The military situation on land is not expected to result in a decisive victory for either side until the naval issue is determined.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 3—(P. M.)—Kuangsu troops, estimated at more than 40,000, began an attack in force on Shanghai today. Under cover of artillery fire, with airplanes roaring overhead, the attacking forces advanced in a long semi-circular front shortly after daybreak and by 9 P. M. were within 12 miles of the city.

Shanghai was filled with excited refugees. The Chekiang forces, defending the town, fell back gradually to their prepared positions and dug in for a stubborn defense.

Foreigners were ordered to keep in their winter zones and were kept safe under the guns of allied war craft in the harbor. Japanese and French marines were landed and formed pickets. Under command of the Chinese, they maintained a guard over the American wharves.

WHEN Dan took Evelyn in his arms and told her that he loved her she believed him.

If she had known she was only one of many girls by whose ears he had poured the same sweet sounding words, what a world of shame and degradation she would have been spared.

"His False Standard"—in True Story

Magazine for October is a story of the sowing of wild oats—and the reaping of a crop of agony. If every man and woman could see the broken hearts and ruined hopes, the days and nights of remorse and tears that follow wrong-doing—no young man would trifle with a woman's love and no girl would give her heart to any man until she had made sure that his intentions were honorable.

Don't fail to read this thrilling lesson from life.

Here are just a few of the unusual features in the October issue of True Story Magazine

"Her Final Choice"—Nina, an orphan, hung up for love. So when Peter Hodges came into her life, she fell an easy prey to his seeming devotion. She little realized that he was throwing himself into her arms, she was in a living tragedy.

"Whom Every Woman Hopes"—Living in a house of prostitution, she thought no temptation of city life could ever lure her into wrong. But Madge did not know how easy and attractive such little down-town traps are made, and how once she has stepped in, she will have to battle for her soul.

"The Network of Fate"—When Janet concealed from her husband that his friend, had made improper advances toward her, she believed her silence the only way to save her husband from ruin. How she had literally clawed her way out of hell as a result, is a most heart gripping narrative.

"You Belong to Me"—When Avery Holson

COMMENDABLE ACTION.

The whole community will join in expressing its most hearty approval of the action of the Board of Education in making an appropriation of $3,000 to the support of the Carnegie Free Library.

There was the almost faith that both the letter and spirit of the agreement made with City Council early in the year would be observed just as soon as circumstances would enable the Board of Education to do so.

By the terms of that agreement the City Council appropriated $1,000 with the understanding that the Board of Education would supply $3,000, making the total $10,000, which is required for the adequate maintenance of the library this year. These conditions have been met fully and completely, as was confidently expected would be done.

There is, therefore, occasion for gratification on the part of all friends of the Library that, for the first time for many years, it is in position to add much needed books to its equipment and otherwise better serve its purpose as an auxiliary to the schools and as a source of inspiration and instruction to the ambitious young people who are qualifying themselves for positions of greater usefulness and larger responsibility.

To the Board of Education and the City Council there is justly due the credit for having the vision to see the possibilities that are in the Library as an institution belonging to all the people and intended to serve all who desire to avail themselves of the privileges provided for their free use.

SUCCESSFUL START OF THE COUNTY COUNCIL PLAN.

The wisdom and sound business in creating the Fayette County Scout Council for the purpose of giving organized direction to Scouting in the county, have been fully and satisfactorily demonstrated in the first application of the plan.

The summer camp, which has closed its season of six weeks was the most successful in the history of Scouting in the county, made no doubt because of the systematic method by which it was conducted. It provided outing facilities for a large number of boys from whom were troops from various sections of the county. Every camp activity was supervised by young men trained in their work, hence the largest benefit was derived therefrom.

With an ample general fund out of which to provide for the expenses of the camp several trips were permitted to participate in which might otherwise have been denied the privilege. In this respect the advantages of the county council plan stands out prominently. The troops in the smaller communities have precisely the same advantages as those in the more populous centers in all that pertains to skilled instruction and training. This was one of the chief objects to be attained through the agency of the county council plan.

What has thus far been accomplished under the new order of Scout administration ought to be accepted as a promise of the greater things that can be done in behalf of the youth of the country. With the work of the county council now successfully started there should be such a revival of interest that the number of Scout troops will be materially enlarged and that many new communities will be enrolled as Scout boosters.

With the facilities we now have at hand and the splendid material out of which Scouts can be made every town in the county should have its Scout organization, making Fayette one of the leaders in this great movement for the training of boys in the essentials of good citizenship.

OUR PART IN DEFENSE DAY.

As the public becomes better informed as to National Defense Day it is more generally realized that it is not to be a display of "military force" or "victory" or other evidence of a military tendency in our government.

It is merely an opportunity to show business progress by taking stock, so to speak, of our defensive resources and to ascertain to what extent further preparation might be necessary in case of emergency.

According to the plans by which the day will be observed in the several communities a citizens committee will arrange for a public meeting at which addresses will be made on subjects pertinent to the occasion and such other duties provided as will be regarded as suitable. Where units of the National Guard are stationed the duty of the officers in command will be to recruit them to war strength. The Reserve Corps

LaFolletteism Is Socialism

"Dopes and Adepts."

(Copyright 1924, by the Interstate Commercial News Service—All Rights Reserved.)

LaFolletteism is Communism. Communism is Illuminism, which is the father of all movements to destroy government; confounds industries and wife out the private property right.

Illuminism has operated secretly for 127 years. Officially, today, it is called Communism, directed by the Communist International, with headquarters at Moscow, Russia.

The original movement originated a system of Deception, Fraud; Falsehood, Intrigue, Secrecy and Conspiracy to gain members among these members.

They would not understand the real purposes of the organization. When "pledged," they were separated into "degrees," all those of a like, mind being in the same degree.

Then the entire membership of all "degrees" was divided into two groups, called Dopes and Adepts.

The Dopes were those who did not fully understand the objectives and purposes of this organization, but who had been induced to join because they believed in some way they were going to advance a personal interest. The Adepts, as the name implies, were those who were guiding the work and who fully understood the real purpose.

The same system applies today in the United States with Illuminism, under the name of Communism, directed from Soviet Russia.

The Dopes are many and in practically every walk of life.

The Adepts are few and so conceal their real work that they are unknown to the great mass of Dopes.

To illustrate: The Conference for Progressive Political Action is another name for the Socialist Party. Not informing those who become members it is the Socialist Party it is practical deception.

Those who have annexed themselves to this movement have done so because they are of the belief that their lies are going to be corrected through the Government owning the railroads and the public utilities, and through the correction of others ill by legislative action.

They do not know, and are not told, that instead of these so-called reforms aiding them, they will but increase their lies and are only sought reforms aiding them, to the confiscation of these railroads and utilities and result in the final socialization of all private property.

And so they become Dopes.

LaFollette is the man selected by the Adepts to further increase the army of Dopes.

The Socialist Party is back of LaFollette. It is a "degree" of Illuminism.

The Conference for Progressive Political Action is back of LaFollette.

It is a degree of Illuminism, or best known now as Communism.

Are you one of the Dopes?

THE DAY: THE LADY AND THE TARTS.

One story was my father's stock of One laugh preventer, and I often told the best and most popular stories he told.

Told it first, I now recall, when I was five years old.

And on my fifth next I knew the story well enough to tell it once again.

I've heard it many times since then but never with much relish.

When he'd tell it the boy, the lady, and the tart.

The lady ran a little shop where always a tart displayed.

The lady makes tarts and rolls and which she that day had made.

One morning to her window came a sad-faced, hungry-looking boy.

His eyes were sorrow-reigned instead of roguish joy.

And there he stood and fixed these eyes when every tear drop fell upon her plate of tarts.

The lady said to the eager child, and like those days the memory of a boy she'd never seen again:

So to that uncaring of the streets who hurried old maid.

"Oh, would you eat a tart, my lad?"

The rascal raised his head.

His eyes stretched wide as eyes must be when pleasure from them draws near.

"Could I eat a tart?" said he. "Yes, fairly blooming lad!"

I've heard that tale a hundred times, aye, that many more.

With my father used to set the table

He'd often had roll it out, that he'd loved me well.

We know a son he began just what it cost to tell.

"I've got a son for him," he said and memory links him with the boy,

the lady, and the tart.

Coker Grid Candidates to Meet Coaches at 2 O'Clock Tomorrow; Boys Are Ready

Every Lad Anxious to Don the Molekins and Get Down to Real Work.

EXPECT "BIG" SEASON

Tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock Coaches J. E. Loring and Caskey Spidle of the High School will meet the boys who are contemplating turning out this season as candidates for the football team. The session will be in the High School.

The boys are very anxious to get down to work. The feeling prevails that with Loring and Spidle back on duty the team cannot but have a successful year. The outfit will have considerable new material to draw upon; it is said, and this news is cheering.

Van Marleita, captain, has returned from camp in the Indian Creek valley. He says he did some running and worked out with a ball while there. He has lost considerable of his spring avoridspols and this may be Van's "year."

"BOB" MILLIARD, COKER HALFBACK, HAS INJURED FOOT

Connellsville High School may have to start its season without the services of one lad who last year showed promise of developing into something considerably worth while.

"Bob" Milliard, of Bullskin township, is getting along now with the use of a cane as a result of blood poisoning in the foot.

"Bob" bruised the left foot while swimming several weeks ago at the Pleasant Valley Country Club. It became infected and a doctor was called.

He has been under the care of a physician and expects to be in shape again in about two weeks.

He will miss the preliminary work-outs with the team but he has his heart set on getting into the game and will keep in touch with every step. "Bob" is a backfield candidate.

RAIN CAUSES DELAY IN TENNIS TOURNEY; WILL RESUME TODAY

Because of the rain yesterday the second day's play in the open tennis tournament being conducted by the Connellsville Tennis Association had to be postponed. Play will be resumed today, however, and some extra good matches are scheduled.

The girls' singles and mixed doubles may be on the bill for today also. This feature of the tournament has increased interest in the affair among spectators and it is anticipated the courts will be crowded this afternoon.

Horseshoe Teams Feast on Corn; Also Play Few Games

Sixty-five members of the Interchurch Horseshoe League enjoyed a corn roast at the Presbyterian Church Monday evening, the follow-up of the championships contest which ended recently. Before the "golters" sat down to the feast they engaged in several matches on the Armory grounds. The Reds, captained by Clyde W. Dowas, won over the Blues, headed by Albert S. Silcox in the big event of 50 games. In a second match Captain George W. Campbell's "side" triumphed over that of Dave Parkhill.

Corn in abundance was served, along with other things. Abe Dambeck provided the corn, and better the homecooks said they never ate. Albert S. Silcox had charge of the kitchen.

Of Interest to Fans.

The Pittsburg Pirates were idle yesterday because of rain and today open a four-game engagement with the St. Louis Cardinals. The Buccos are now within half a game of the top position, gaining the half game when New York split a double header with Boston. The Braves took the first clash from the ruderless Giants, 7-3 and lost the second 10-2.

Wilbur Cooper, southpaw ace of the Americans League but it seems finally to be between New York and Washington. The Senators held their game and a half last yesterday, while idle, when the Yankees split a doubleheader with the Red Sox. Cobb's Detroit Tigers were trimmed twice by the White Sox and seem to be definitely out of the running.

Fans throughout this region are of the opinion that nothing "could be

At the Theatres

The Paramount

"WHISPERED NAME" with Niles Welch and Ruth Clifford in the star roles, is on view today and tomorrow at the Paramount. A selected comedy is also included.

Friday and Saturday, Franklin Purvis will be seen in "Western Vengeance," an interesting drama of the great west.

The Soisson

"BETWEEN FRIENDS," featuring an all star cast, provides splendid entertainment today at the Soisson. There are many striking and unusual photographic and sound effects. The picture is in seven reels.

Critics and film lovers who were privileged to witness a preview were unanimous in declaring the story of friendship, love and hatred a masterpiece of story-telling, direction and photography.

Lou Tellegen, "the great lover" of the stage and screen, whose portrayal of Dick Lester in "Let Not Man Put Asunder" won him thousands of fan friends, is cast as David Crane.

Anna Q. Nilsson, recently seen in "Ponjola," "Adam's Rib" and "Pink Gods," is cast in the role of Jessie Crane. Miss Nilsson is one of the most beautiful leading women of the screen today.

Norman Kerry is cast as John Graylock.

Alice Calhoun appears as Cecile White, a model's role that is especially fitting in this popular player who won high honors in "The Man From Broadway," "The Midnight Alarm," and "The Man Next Door."

Stuart Holmes has a role in which he wins great laurels.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, "Behold This Woman" will be shown.

The Orpheum

"A SOCIETY SCANDAL," with Gloria Swanson, in the leading role, is on view today at the Orpheum. "A Society Scandal" is a good picture about her. The events take place within the inner circle of New York society, and it is not the movie-studio socials that parades before our eyes. The settings are authentic, one of the big scenes actually taking place in the real Ritz ballroom, and among the actresses is a sister of Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt.

Miss Swanson's beautiful gowns do not in any way detract from the emotional power and fire that she throws into her big scenes. The story, which was adapted from the famous Alfred Sutro's "The Laughing Lady," is not the usually jinxed society stuff but is a thoroughly logical, gripping and at all times entertaining drama of love, divorce and a woman's reputation.

In the story Miss Swanson enters upon a cold-blooded attempt to infatuate with her charms the young lawyer, who ruined her reputation in the divorce court. She succeeds, only to discover that who cannot go through with her purpose of ruining him as he did her.

Rod La Rocque, one of the most engaging leading men now extant, is the hero, and Ricardo Cortez and Alton Simpson are also in the cast. Allan Dwan directed. The picture is a Paramount.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, "Wanderer of the Wasteland" will be shown.

The State

Coming to the State Theatre, Uniontown, tomorrow, matinee and night, with the original cast and production intact, is George E. Whitt's latest musical comedy success, "Models of 1925." Prominent in the cast distinguished for the number of well-known musical comedy luminaries are Nyra Brown; said to be the handsomest actress on the American stage and Johnnie Gets, the imitable comedian, pink, jovial, cherubically innocent with the expression that tickles the risibilities even before he opens his mouth. A score of specialty dancers add to the attractiveness of the offering. The chorus, made up of girls from Hollywood's studios and of professional models, loaned by the famous establishments of Lady Duff Gordon, Lucille, Peggy Page and Worth, add an indescribable charm. It is said that the most gorgeous production shown on the road in a decade. A costume here has been expended on costumes and scenic effects, is the claim made. Both phones, Bell 1822, Tri-State 168.

HELD AS "BRAINS" OF MAIL ROBBERIES

William F. Peck, "boy" of the U. S. Postal Inspection in Chicago, and regarded as one of the country's best rock-dusters, is under arrest there, accused of being the "mastermind" in the sensational $1,000,000 mail robbery at Homestead, Ill., in June, and of other huge mail robberies. The suspicion of his chief was aroused when he requested the Chicago Police Department to cease its investigation so that he could work unhampered. He is shown here examining one of the gas masks furnished mail clerks after poison gas was used in the Homestead robbery.

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—President Coolidge has been airbated by William M. Butler, his campaign manager, to "proceed as he has been proceeding." A lengthy conference between the President and Butler took place at the White House yesterday, the first since the President returned from his vacation.

Prospects were reviewed and a general report of the political situation was given Mr. Coolidge by Butler, who advised the President that his present course was calculated to inspire confidence and win the election. The President, it was said, on his behalf, has no particular campaign plan except to make a speech now and then as occasion arises.

Senator James Watson, Republician of Indiana, who called at the White House, predicted Mr. Coolidge's certain election but declared there is some doubt of Republican control of the next Congress. Watson asserted that John W. Davis, the Democratic candidate, would run third in every state west of the Mississippi except Montana.

The Democratic party had practically disappeared in many of the Western states, he said.

The TRUANT'S SOUL

by VICTOR ROUSSEAU

COPYRIGHT by W.G. CHAPMAN

Joan ignored her; she had concentrated all her attention upon Lancaster's probable demands; she was resolved that he would be found wanting. It was time Lancaster was absolutely merciless and he ruined many a girl's career by refusing to allow her to complete her graduation course. He was treacherous, unscrupulous, unkind, and never appreciated good work. Humor went that when a certain nurse had once handed him benzine instead of alcohol he had taken her by the shoulders and run her hollily out of the hospital forbidding her to show her face there again.

"He can't last long if he leads that sort of life," the dark-haired girl repeated. "You'd think he'd be old enough to have learned how to pretend to be a gentleman even if he isn't one."

Joan shook her off mentally as one shuns away a persistent fly. For the tenth time she counted the instruments in the tray. Lancaster picked up a scalpel, and MacPherson and Ivens took up their positions, one on either side of him. The operation was beginning.

The visiting surgeons watched with an occasional whispered remark. The assistants already were snapping the little forceps upon the ends of the divided arteres. Lancaster issued his commands from time to time, without looking back:

"Sponges!"

"One-two," whispered the dark-haired girl. "Three-four-five—"

"Blotter. Scissors. Dilator. Number four Sutures."

Joan never faltered. She felt easier in his grip, her quick hands found the instruments in the tray the moment Lancaster demanded them. Meanwhile the dark-haired girl never failed counting the sponges:

"Six-seven-eight-nine."

Suddenly Lancaster stopped, wheeled and turned furiously upon her. "For God's sake, stop that chattering!" he cried.

The girl let a sponge fall, snatched it up, and shot an aprehensive glance at him. Joan saw that she was losing the nurse in spite of her brave talk of a few minutes before. It was the critical time of a very dangerous and difficult process. She tried to pull herself together.

Yet, without looking up she realized that a sense of general apprehension had stolen through the operating theater. The nurse at the head of the table, like a child in a cold bath, had not shifted her position since the beginning of the operation.

That from time to time her hand shifted slightly so she let one or two drops of ether fall upon the mask.

MacPherson and Ivens alreddy busily, their heads bent level with their chief's as they moved to and fro at their work. The patient began to mutter. Then a hand, upraised in weak protest, struck a clump from Ivens' fingers. It rattled upon the floor.

"Keep him quiet," Miss Symons commanded.

"Doctor Lancaster, the pillow—" she began.

But, after a quick glance at the head surgeon, she slumped her shoulders, tilted the bottle, and deliberately poured out all the ether remaining in it. The attendants stared at the catastrophe filled the room. Joan saw the benches swing, the craning faces seemed to become multiplied; Lancaster and the two assistants, the visiting surgeons were they gnomes, an immense distance away, surrounding a tiny table on which a doll-like figure lay extended. She tried to bring them back into focus, but could not; and, what was worse, she felt that she had lost her nurse's sense of dividing the surgeon's requirements before he gave expression to them.

The feeling of suspense was growing. Something was wrong, and although nothing had been said, even the students on the top row of benches farthest from the table were aware of it. The assistant doctors appeared as ever, as did the nurses, and stood at their posts, and once twice looked up at Lancaster as if his tactic was passing them. Joan saw two of the visiting surgeons exchange a brief silence, one with inquiry, the other, answering, with uplifted eyebrows. Once Lancaster stopped; he resumed his work, stepped aside, and stood staring at his work. Then he wheeled round upon Joan, the upper part of his body seeming to move upon a pivot, while his lower limbs remained stationary.

"That scolded—quickly," he cried.

Joan started and stretched out her hands toward the tree, which gleamed star red, dizzily through a black cloud.

"The one I handed you. Don't stare at me like a fool."

Joan bent over the tree, putting out one hand in the table to support herself. She was conscious that everything was amiss and that everyone was watching her. In an instant, however, she heard the sensations passing right, as if he was breathing the last wisps of life away.

She fingered the instruments in the tree feebly and nervously, and her hands showed mounted and unsteady. Her fingers closed on something and brought it out. Then Lancaster's hand closed over hers, tare it away, and hung it back with a spasm. Joan's hand dropped to her side, paralyzed by the painful pangs. The next instant Lancaster had the scalpel and whirled swiftly back toward the table, upending the bichloride, which lapped over the patient's feet.

"I am a scolded—quickly," he cried.

ABANDONMENT OF BROWNTOWN SCHOOL OPPOSED

Citizens' Protest to East Huntingdon Board Referred to the State

171 IN HIGH SCHOOL

Special to The Courier

SCOTTDALE, Sept. 3.—At the meeting of the school board of East Huntingdon township at the High School at Alverton on Monday evening a group of parents from Brownstown made a protest against the removal of the Brownstown school. Two years ago a part of Brownstown was taken into a part of Scottsdale and this left a group of families around Meadow Mills. After a time the board discontinued one school and retained one. Old Meadow residents are almost as near White School as they were Brownstown school. Last spring in compliance with the section of the school code that provides for consolidation or schools it was decided to consolidate all schools since the distance would be just 3-1/2 of a mile more to walk. The people consider the distance too great, while from the board's viewpoint increased educational advantages offset this. It has cost on the average of $20 a pupil to educate the children at White while a student's share to maintain a teacher at Brownstown this term would cost $34.70 a pupil.

Of the five of the group of students 13 of which the records show from last year were to attend school, and four new children, making 22 that would go to the Brownstown, appeared at the White school.

After the board heard the discussion it was decided to leave the matter up to the State Department of Education.
